Fr Frans van der Lugt SJ (UPDATE: posted on Facebook just days before his assassination "Our faith helps us a lot to overcome this critical situation, provides us with hope and patience...Starving is threatening our lives, we miss the basic elements to survive, food and elementary needs...But somehow we are surviving, and push life forward. Moreover, we experience the goodness of people who are in need. They find some lentils and bulgur [all they can eat after two years] in front of their doors. Now, when we are poor and in need, we rediscover the goodness of human beings, when we receive from our brothers and sisters. We see evil is trying to find his way among us, but it can't turn us blind before the goodness...We are preparing ourselves to Easter, reflecting on crossing from death to resurrection. We feel like we are in the valley of the shadows, but we can see that light far away, leading us to life again")

Hanna (wife and mother, UPDATE: wrote "Sometimes it seems like there is no end to all this misery. I know God is in control, but sometimes I feel so hopeless. I regularly fall on my knees and cry out to Him about why all of this is happening...While I'm telling you this, we're in the middle of a bombing. My husband and two girls just saw one bomb falling down over 200 yards from our house. We hurried downstairs to be safer...A mortar falling down sounds like a very strong voice near you; it's the same pressure. We don't know what will happen in five minutes, or even one minute. One moment you're here, the next moment you can be gone. A few days ago my relative was preparing Easter snacks in the kitchen when suddenly her life was over; a bomb fell through her apartment. We didn't find her body...I told the children [in the school where I work]: no matter what bad things are happening around us, our God is still good; even if we're in danger of death, our God is still good and worthy of praise. So we raised our hands and started worshipping God. The parents of one of our Muslim pupils were present while we did that, and they were so impressed they said: 'Our child is safe here. He is under the protection of God'")

The core ideology of this extremist organization, born in the 1930s and having its inspiration from Hitler and the Nazis, was the formation of a Hindu nation state. In this ideology, minorities - particularly the Muslims and the Christians - were meant to be treated as second-class citizens. However, India's freedom fighters like Mahatma Gandhi, Jawaharlal Nehru, Babasaheb Ambedkar, worked and ensured that India becomes a secular and democratic State where every citizen is treated equally with rights and freedom guaranteed in the Constitution...The RSS was never satisfied with this. One of their men Godse assassinated Mahatma Gandhi in 1948. Over the years, they spawned many other groups including their political wing Bhartiya Janata Party BJP; together they are all known as the 'Sangh Parivar'...Modi has proved to be an extremely divisive person; he is a skillful orator able to spin myths and to take credit for achievements which are not his. With a well-oiled campaign, backed by a large section of India's corporate sector and by media houses owned by them, many feel that his party will be the largest single party when the results are announced and he may also be India's next Prime Minister")
