Jordan

Wael Suleiman (director of Caritas Jordan; UPDATE: said of the 2 million refugees in his country "Jordan is open to all, we are aware of carrying out an important humanitarian mission, and we want to continue. In recent times 200 thousand Syrian refugees have been regularized as legal workers. But now refugees and immigrants represent 40 percent of the population. The national debt has grown exponentially in recent years. Many Jordanians are now poorer than many immigrants. If the international community does not take note of the explosive situation and does not intervene to support this effort carried out by the entire Country, there will come a time when even here all doors to enter the Country will be closed and those who had fled from hunger and war will have to be repatriated")

Syria: Aleppo

Archbishop Antoine Audo SJ (UPDATE: said "For weeks we are again in a situation of general terror, even though we try to keep public institutions such as universities open. The neighborhoods controlled by the rebels are hit by sophisticated weapons, which spread death, although the rebels have no planes. Among the Christians alone, in the past two weeks, there have been over twenty deaths. But Western media does not talk about what happens to us. For all of us who are here, all the global media system appears maneuvered by geopolitical interests that manipulate information. Everything becomes an excuse for propaganda. And the role and operations implemented by countries such as Turkey, Qatar and Saudi Arabia continue to be hidden")

Dozens of Christians remain jailed for the riot and lynching that followed the March 15, 2015 attempted suicide bombings of two churches

Sr Genevieve Ram Lal (national director of the Catholic Women's Organization, said "The locals have many grievances with the justice system. We have been raising the issue of our sons and brothers whenever we meet Christian ministers. I hope the chief minister of Punjab province will listen to our requests. Peace will only return to the attacked Christian neighborhood after the freedom of jailed Christians...Now that the bread-winners are behind bars, the women of affected families have no choice but to seek jobs. The church is helping them by waiving off school fees of the children whose fathers are in jail")

Rev Arshad Ashknaz (UPDATE: said "The Christians are not terrorists, 75 percent of those arrested were not even identified in the camera which filmed the lynching incident. The police themselves caught the bomb suspects. It was all just an accident. It's been more than a year and a half and they have been punished enough...Whenever we speak with government officials, they offer to trade the Christian prisoners with those who burnt alive a Christian couple in a brick kiln")

Fr Yousif Ibrahim (brother of Deacon Ragheed Fahmy Ibrahim; UPDATE: said that he advises Christians to leave Iraq, said "The future here is bad. Every time a terror group appears under a different name and sets out to persecute Christians. I'm a monk, like a soldier I don't think about [myself]...My brother Ragheed used to say in the last months before he was killed: 'We have a lot of sins. These sins cannot be washed but by [Jesus's] blood!' I consider him a hero killed for the name of Jesus...I forgave them. Believe me, I can tell you even Ragheed's wife now forgave those who killed her husband. Paul used to persecute Christians, but later he knew Him and believed...Jesus, when on the way to Golgotha, told the women not to weep for him but for themselves. For if people do these things when the tree is green, what will happen when it is dry? Persecution is a pride for us")

Archbishop Urmas Viilma (Estonian Evangelical Lutheran Church, condemned an art exhibit for the 500th anniversary of the Reformation in which a virtual image of Mary may be destroyed with a kick, wrote “The virgin Mary for a huge number of believers is not some historical figure or event, gone into oblivion, but a reality today. The ridicule was an insult to the feelings of believers...Our Lady is not merely a stature [sic] or an idea, but a real saint who resides with God. She is always present with the faithful on Earth and she intercedes on our behalf. She is the ultimate incarnation of woman, sinless and holy, and the Mother of God. As such, she deserves the utmost respect, not to be treated with disrespect...The Protestant Reformation was largely a political and economic movement, in addition to a religious schism. Our Lady was not part of that evil. Her role in our world served to facilitate our salvation. She does not deserve for her Holy name, or her image to be desecrated”)

Archbishop Charles J Chaput (quoted a civil rights attorney that the Wikileaks revelations of Hillary Clinton campaign emails showed “some of the worst bigotry by a political machine I have seen...[a] Church has an absolute right to protect itself when under attack as a faith and Church by civil political forces...Now there is clear proof that this [anti-Catholic] approach is deliberate and will accelerate if these actors have any continuing, let alone louder, say in government...Look where we are now. We have political actors trying to orchestrate a coup [by the laity against bishops] to destroy Catholic values, and they even analogize their takeover to a coup in the Middle East, which amplifies their bigotry and hatred of the Church")

Pastor Isaac Balason (aged 34, said “It is now 8:30 PM, and the attack is ongoing. We’re not sure we’ll survive this time. Please be in prayers with us”, the next day said of the Fulani massacre "Thank God we survived, but many others have lost their lives...Three out my 120 members were killed during the first attack, and the rest, including myself, have been displaced. I cannot say whether they all survived this latest attack, as it is difficult at this moment to know the situation they are in")

Rev Thomas Akut (aged 41, escaped a Fulani massacre with his family, said “We fled into the bushes, and some of us escaped to safer areas. The attackers were in the hundreds and were well armed. Some of them wore army uniforms, while others wore police uniforms. Some of them exchanged gunfire with the few soldiers stationed at the post office in the town, while others burned down houses of Christians...This casualty figure [22 Christians killed] is only those I saw the following morning, but the number of deaths may be higher as many were killed in the bushes too...Our farms have been destroyed. Crops that are now ready for harvest have all been destroyed by the herdsmen. Members of our churches cannot even go to these farms, as anyone who attempts to do so is murdered by the herdsmen. Most of the villages around Godogodo have been destroyed and thousands of Christians displaced...This is a jihad. It is an Islamic holy war against Christians in the southern part of Kaduna state”)

Kurma Amos (aged 44, shot dead)

Waje Goska Williams (national chairman of the Kaninkon Development Association, identified the victims, wrote “We are under unprovoked and sustained attacks by people who are not known but who are working closely with the local Fulani people that we have lived with for many years. The motive of the attacks is clearly unknown, but we can see that it is a genocidal mission...The professionalism employed by the attackers is such that [they could be] only trained people who have the backing and aid of some people in government and the security forces. We are particularly worried because there seems to be a conspiracy of silence and complacency on the part of the security agencies and the Kaduna state and federal governments on the plight of our people ... The attacks, especially that of 27th October, wherein the village head of Ungwan Misisi and some elders were gruesomely murdered in cold blood by some people who came as soldiers, clearly shows the conspiracy by the security men in wiping out our people...These attacks have gone on for more than one week, and the security men are either not there, or they are aiding and abetting the attackers to annihilate our people and destroy their hard-earned properties”)

Zarifa Bakoos Daddo (aged 77, widow, housemate of Badriya, said after being freed from ISIL control "One time, a young one, maybe 20 or 21, came and said we should convert. I told him we had our beliefs and they had theirs, He told me to spit on a picture of the Virgin Mary and a crucifix. I refused but he made me. The whole time I was telling God in my heart that I did not mean any of this, I knew God heard me because he tried to burn the picture and his lighter didn't work...The whole time I prayed for my people, for the town, and also for these ISIL members, that God may open their hearts, My Arabic got better from being around them, so something came out of it, thank God")
