Events – September 2017

Friday September 1, 2017

India

Fr Cedric Prakash SJ (UPDATE: wrote following the assassination of writer and journalist Gauri Lankesh "Gauri represented the best of free and fearless India, respecting the rights of every citizen, celebrating pluralism and, above all, defending the highest values of democracy! Gauri had the courage to challenge the Sangh Parivar [the Hindu supremacist umbrella organization] and all sectarian people. She hated the caste system, struggled for the emancipation of women, fought for the poor and marginalized. Hers was an unstoppable crusade for the freedom of thought and expression. No one was spared when there was injustice in the center of the matter")

Auxiliary Bishop Theodore Mascarenhas SFX (UPDATE: signed a statement by the Catholic bishops condemning the assassination of journalist Gauri Lankesh by likely Hindu nationalists "We salute her for the courage with which she wrote, the conviction with which she lived her life and the boldness with which she fought the forces of evil, hatred and corruption...The murder of this versatile and brave journalist follows other crimes of hatred of recent times: the murders of Sahitya Academy Award Winner and Writer M M Kalburgi in Dharwad, thinker Govind Pansare in in Kohlapur, thinker Narendra Dabholkar in Pune, the mob lynchings by Gau Rakshaks in the name of protecting cows, political killings in Kerala and other such hate crimes")

India: Rewa, Madhya Pradesh state

Fr Sebastian Panthalluparambil (aged 40, high school principal, charged with molesting a 17 year old student)

Bishop Joseph Kodakallil (said "This is totally a baseless and false complaint", added that a CCTV camera in the principal's office proves the incident did not happen: "It has been given as evidence to disprove the allegations")

Archbishop Leo Cornelio (UPDATE: said "It is an attempt to tarnish the image of the church. The real facts were distorted and a false case was registered against the priest")

India: Myleripalaya, Coimbatore district, Tamil Nadu state

Rev Solomon Raja (church closed by police following a complaint from the Hanuman Sena Hindu extremist group)

Pakistan: Lahore

Archbishop Sebastian Francis Shah OFM (UPDATE: attacked in the press after the daughter of a former prime minister solicited votes from the pulpit, said "The Christian politicians called me two days ago and explained that her only objective was to pray for her ailing mother...We agreed upon a draft speech briefly mentioning her 11 years of studies at the Convent of Jesus and Mary school and the student career of the former prime minister at St Anthony's High School. Both institutes are operated by the Lahore Archdiocese. She was supposed to conclude with prayer requests for her ailing mother. We gave her the opportunity because of her faith and her acquaintance with ruling party...Maryam transgressed by asking for votes for her father. I wanted to stop her but millions were watching live on their television screens. At one moment, I decided to walkout as boycott, but then it could have been detrimental for Church relations with authorities. We need their aid to help persecuted Christians and take back our nationalized schools and properties...A directive has been issued to all churches. The Church microphone and pulpit will not be given to politicians"

Philippines

Archbishop Socrates Villegas (UPDATE: said at an archdiocesan synod "We must teach even if our voices get hoarse. We must teach even if they threaten us. We must teach even if they kill us and if they kill us, our message will echo even more because the best way to teach is through martyrdom!...In the lights and shadows of life, in the stormy and sunny days, in the persecutions we endure and the triumphs we bask in – the Lord speaks...We dream not of status quo Church but an ever vibrant Church that is excited, not afraid to plunge into the deep")

Sunday September 3, 2017

India: Arasur, Coimbatore district, Tamil Nadu state

Pastor Suresh Kumar (church attacked on May 7, 2017 with a planted explosive device, said “We were terrified when we found a petrol bomb on the church premises. We thank God that we noticed before it could explode and have massive damage as that day was a Sunday. We don’t know who planted the bomb. But we did know that prior to the planting of the bomb in our church, there was a brutal attack on an Assemblies of God Church by the members of the Hindu Munnani in the same suburb of Arasur”; UPDATE: church ordered closed by the local revenue office, said an officer from the revenue department came and told us that the revenue office received a complaint from Mr Murgeshan [a leader of the Hindu Munnani] regarding our church. He said I had to stop worship and close down the church. Despite this, we continued our worship as we did not get anything in writing from the officer concerned”)

India: Faridabad

Pastor Abraham Thomas (dragged to a police station by Hindu radicals after the radicals gave children leaflets stating 'Let us use guns to shoot all the Hindus' and photographed them, then told police that he had given them the leaflets, released but church closed, said “My church is shut down and I have not conducted any service since then. Do we as Christians ever enter a Hindu temple...levying allegations on the priest and demanding explanations from them? If not, then who gives them the right to treat us this way?”)

Vietnam: Xuan Tho commune, Xuan Loc district, Dong Nai province

Fr Nguyen Duy Tan (church attacked by government thugs who arrived on a bus, locked the church gate and rang the bell to summon parishioners who detained the attackers, said “I recognized Nguyen Trong Nghia of the Red Flags group. Commune security kept inviting them back to their office, and district security officers behaved the same way, refusing to do any work at the scene. They wouldn’t note down the registration numbers of the guns or count how many bullets they had”, declined to press charges because “they are all on the same side, the side of the Communist Party. There would have been no point in pushing for prosecution”)

India: Kasganj district, Uttar Pradesh state

Sandeep Kumar aka Karan Anthony (aged 18, agricultural science college student, son of Shrinivas Gautam, brother of Kuldeep Kumar, arrested on August 23, 2017 for posting anti-Hindu comments on Facebook, denied food in jail, said “I was not at all aware about the fake Facebook account. I was only focusing on my studies, and we have worship services on the campus also every morning and evening, so I was spending most of my time with Christian friends here and never felt the need to open a social media account...Before this Facebook row, they got me into trouble twice. They beat me severely, alleging, ‘You are Christian, you are from low caste’. It was my good friend who falsely framed me by joining hands with Rudra Sena activists”; UPDATE: released on bail, ill with malaria and typhus, said “When I was in jail, every day I was spending time in prayer: the other prisoners did not understand what was going on, they asked me many questions like, ‘What is this you are doing, why are you knelt, what are you murmuring?’ It was an opportunity the Lord had given me to share the gospel with them”)

India: Kavalapadoor village, Bantwal Taluk, Dakshina district, Kachada, Karnataka state

Mercy (arrested on forced conversion charges)

Roselina (arrested on forced conversion charges)

Sajan K George (UPDATE: said the arrests demonstrate growing "intolerance towards the Christian faith. The renewed audacity of extreme right-wing groups is a serious threat to democratic India. Based on simple suspicions, nationalist activists capture, interrogate, and intimidate Pentecostal Christians. On the contrary, women were not doing anything illegal. Increasing religious intolerance is taking violent forms in India... 'Gau Rakshas' [cow watchers] or vigilantes, who also question what people are eating")

India: Ranchi, Jharkhand state

Rev Dr Manmassih Ekka (said after the Chief Minister [Governor] signed a new anti-conversion law "There is a danger to the social harmony in the state of Jharkhand. The passage of the bill is clearly an attempt to polarize tribal community by the ruling BJP... We have already seen the aggression of the Hindu fundamentalists misusing the bill as four Christians were falsely charged under forcible conversions and were sent to jail in Simdega district of Jharkhand... We are asking the government to take back their decision in the interest of people of Jharkhand. On behalf of the All Church Committee of Ranchi, we are organizing a public meeting in Ranchi along with progressive groups, including the Hindu community")

Russia: Ekaterinburg

Bishop Tikhon Shevkunov (commented on the movie Mathilde "The director Uchitel, who I don't personally know and whose films I've never seen, called me, and asked, 'Would you like to become a consultant for the film?' I said, 'Give me an official request. I will look at the request and then answer you.' The director Uchitel said, 'The script is already ready.' I said, 'The script?... First you make a request to consultants, and then you develop the script.' He said, 'The film is already almost ready.' I said, 'That's great! You want a consultant on a film that's nearly ready. Why?'" "... Why do they make audiences believe in the historicity of these contrived heartbreaking scenes of a 'love triangle' in which [Tsar] Nicholas, both before and after marriage, is melodramatically torn between Mathilde and Alexandra? What is that? The author's vision? No—it is slander against real people")

Kenya: Bobo and Silini villages, Hindi

Hillary Njuguna (carpenter, abducted and killed by al-Shabaab militants, failed to hear their arrival due to his power saw)

Joseph Kinuthia (primary school teacher, son of Agnes Kimani, shot and beheaded)

Jared Maiko (businessman, shot and beheaded)

Gushi Peter (shot and beheaded)

Joseph Muchemi (described the murders, said “The reason many people weren’t killed like in 2014, when 15 people were killed and houses torched, is because we are always alert at night. This, however, doesn’t mean that four people deserved to die. We will continue to ask the government to set up at least one police post in every three villages”)

Pastor Bernard Baya (said “Since morning, the people here have been protesting the state of insecurity where only Christians are killed. Roads have been blocked and tires are being burned everywhere as the police try to calm the residents. I have heard some protesters say that they would break into the mosques and burn them down because the Muslims have been killing their friends like chicken”)

Agnes Kimani (mother of Joseph Kinuthia, later said her son was “a dedicated young man who had given up a lot to take up a teaching job at Bobo primary school. He always wanted to see the pupils excel and proceed to good secondary schools...He is now rest in the Lord, and we for God’s justice to prevail”)

Ruth Wagunyi (later said “I am very bitter and worried about how I will live without [my husband]. I treasured him because he loved me and provided everything that I needed. I am still in shock from what I saw that night: blood all over, his body lying lifeless and the head a few meters away. Why did they kill my husband?”)

Pastor James Marete (later said “some villagers of Silini and Bobo have fled their homes and are living in Hindi town. Nobody wants to be found by the al-Shabaab at night or during the day in the farms. We have also opened our school to shelter villagers where they sleep and wake to go to the farms in company of a few police officers”)

Pastor Moses Nzayi (later said “Hindi alone has about 30 churches, but you will notice that the number of members has gone down to half compared to the time before the Hindi and Mpeketoni massacres in 2014. This trend is worrying. Some pastors are almost giving up. We have persistently asked the authorities to give sufficient security to the people of Lamu west whose main occupation is farming and small-scale entrepreneurs”)

Syria: Aleppo

Fr Ibrahim Alsabagh OFM (aged 44; UPDATE: said his city "was a metropolis that [before the war] generated about 60 per cent of Syria's industrial output [but now is] paralyzed and does not produce even a kilo of tomatoes, [it is] only a great consumer...[It is an] unstable society, where seniors are abandoned to their fate and die alone because no one takes care of them. Then there are the widows, young and lonely mothers with children because the men have disappeared, those who have not died in the war but have escaped abroad to avoid compulsory military service...For every young man, there are 12 young women, a huge disproportion...violence is part of the everyday life that went from the street into the home. The main challenge is to rebuild the children's personality. This issue is not just about schooling, but includes psychological support and involves the Church and the parish with targeted activities...The fundamentalist ideology has put down roots in the minds of a part of the population thanks to ignorance, poverty, and a desire to vengeance...[Security issues exist] because of the presence of sleeper cells, ready to strike")

United Kingdom

Jacob Rees-Mogg (aged 48, Member of Parliament, said he supported his church's teachings on marriage and abortion)

Rev Gavin Ashenden (UPDATE: later wrote to the Times of London "Your cartoon published today displaying Jacob Rees-Mogg as a fetus deserving of abortion for expressing Christian views on contemporary ethical issues, causes the most profound offense. But worse than the offense, is the implication that is presents a new form of Test Act for Catholics and other Christians...Such a cartoon deliberately sends the message that Christian ethical views have no place in the public and political forum and should be both ridiculed and excluded...")

Dan Hitchens (Catholic Herald editor, later wrote "...Considering all the truly evil things which happen in this country – workers paid pitiful wages to make their employers rich, addicts exploited by vampiric drug-dealers, the daily cruelty towards the elderly – it is strange that people get so furious about politicians saying that yes, since you ask, they wouldn't seek to change the law, but as a theoretical matter, they aren't wholly on board with the modern progressive beliefs about sex....Whatever can be said about Catholic teaching, there are at least various well-elaborated philosophical justifications for it; and it does provide a clear rule of life...the liberal sexual ethic amounts to little more than the vague wish: 'As long as no one gets hurt...' This can hardly address the complexity of human experience – both its nobility and its tawdriness...")

United States - District of Columbia

Amy Coney Barrett (law school professor, mother of 7, federal appellate court nominee, told by Senator Dianne Feinstein "When you read your speeches, the conclusion one draws is that the dogma lives loudly within you" [pundits replied that the Senator sounded like Star Wars' Yoda], also questioned by Senator Dick Durban as to whether she was an "Orthodox Catholic")

Chad C Pecknold (theology professor, tweeted that Senator's Feinstein's questioning was "chilling", added "Senators Durbin and Feinstein weren't questioning a judicial nominee, they were holding a Religious Inquisition with extreme prejudice" and "I teach dogma for a living, and can honestly say that even orthodox Catholics aren't nearly so 'dogmatic' as secular progressives")

United States - Michigan

Nigeria: Ikeja, Lagos state

Fr Daniel Nwankwo (shot outside his church after Mass, hospitalized)

Nigeria: Ancha village, Miango district, Bassa local government area, Plateau state

Twenty Christians were killed and six injured in a revenge attack after the alleged murder of a Muslim child

John Bulus (said “On Saturday, September 2, while we were working on our fields and farms, we saw the Fulanis moving their cattle and families out of their camp, a settlement that is just some few kilometers away from here. So we rushed to them to inquire why the sudden departure from camp. They responded by telling us that one of them was some time ago killed in another village 5 kilometers from our village, hence, their decision to move away...One of them ran after me into the house, and he stood by the door to my room without entering the room or shooting, and after a few minutes he went out to join his colleagues outside. And just as I was thinking about what to do, I heard sporadic gun shots all over the village. They were shooting everywhere in the village and this lasted for about 25 minutes”)

Rev Samson Olasupo Ayokunle (UPDATE: later said “Recently I went to a village called Ancha in Bassa local government of Plateau state where 21 Christians were killed overnight by herdsmen. My church in that village lost 20 members out of the 21 and we gave them a mass burial. It was a gory sight to behold. The most painful and baffling thing about it was that after that attack, [the herdsmen] came to the same area again and killed another 24 people – with none of them arrested by the enforcement agents. What a complicity! Why are the herdsmen devastating communities without being arrested? Why are they not prosecuted? Why was the source of their ammunition not investigated? Why do they roam about with guns without being arrested?”)

The government enacted a law banning religious conversions, which will go into effect in August 2018

Bishop Paul Simick (said "We did not expect that the country would curtail international practices since Nepal is a member of several treaties and conventions on human and religious rights...Now there is fear that charges will be levelled at priests, who do not ask anyone to convert but help people to conduct religious practices. There is the possibility that the right of priests to exercise their faith and duties will be curtailed")

Pastor Chari Bahadur Gahatraj (UPDATE: said "This code aims to control religious freedom and freedom of conversion...We strongly condemn such control in every form. Minorities were forced to follow traditional Hindu practices. But because of discrimination and oppression, people are interested in Christianity...We do not force anyone or ask them to change religion. Br. Some of them, with all due respect for their person, have never had first-hand experience with a psychiatric patient, let alone cared for one or treated one. And have they listened to the many objections that were raised exactly by these experts in the field, and which they continue to raise, or are they stuck in their ideological discourse, supported by a few enlightened ethicists and caught up in social trends...When those in charge of the Organization now openly claim to follow Jesus while distancing themselves from the vision of the Vatican, the Belgian bishops, and the General Administration of the Congregation of the Brothers of Charity because, supposedly, in their eyes, they 'live far removed from reality', then they are sadly mistaken and this is more about pride, arrogance, and ideologization at the expense of the lives of those most in need of care. Let us call a spade a spade: euthanasia is still killing a fellow human being, even if it happens with the utmost due care. How in the name of God is this supposed to be compatible with our charism of charity, the charism of life?")

The state government closed a 20 year old Catholic college allegedly for lacking permits and title to its land

Fr Siljo Kidanganv (college administrator, reported to have said the government "received pressure from extremist Hindu groups and closed the school, arguing that our certificate lacked the signature of the district authority. But the Church bought land from the local population following all legal formalities. Now because of a small matter the government has taken possession of the property")

Fr Maria Stephen (said "What worries us most and concerns us is the way the closure took place. Police arrived at night with five jeeps full of members of the Rashdriya Swayamsevak Sangh [RSS] Hindu paramilitary group, and VHP [Vishva Hindu Parishad, Hindu nationalists, leader of Hindutva ideology]. This scared the children...The behavior of officials dictates that they are not on the side of the poor but the rich. It is horrible to see welfare and good education to poor children shut down")

Bishop Anthony Chirayath (UPDATE: reported to have said police "found that the alleged accusation of converting 200 people is false. Police officers have also verified that property really belongs to the Church, so there is nothing illegal about the land on which the structure is built. They only want to attack us...[the goal] is to drive out Christians from this area. There are just two Christian families here and yesterday one of them told me they received threats, now lives in fear")

Archbishop Leo Cornelio (UPDATE: reported to have said there had been "harassment against Christians and an anti-Christian atmosphere surrounding our mission. This is a land dispute. And it is also a question of Ghar Wapsi, that is to return to the religion of origin. But tribals have never been Hindus. So the [nationalist]'s claim to return the land to the people is unfounded and only responds to the goal of tormenting Christians")

Metropolitan Hilarion Alfeyev (said at The Christian Future of Europe Conference "The modern-day decline of Christianity in the western world may be compared to the situation in the Russian Empire before 1917. The revolution and the dramatic events which followed it have deep spiritual, as well as social and political, reasons. Over many years the aristocracy and intelligentsia had abandoned the faith, and were then followed by common people...I firmly believe that a Europe which has renounced Christ will not be able to preserve its cultural and spiritual identity...The legalization of abortion, the encouragement of sexual promiscuity, and the systematic attempts to undermine family values have led to a profound demographic crisis in many European countries...Often the language of hatred in relation to Christians is used when Christians insist on their right to participate in public affairs. They enjoy the same right as much as it is enjoyed by adherents of any other religion or by atheists. However, in practice it is not like this...In modern-day Europe militant secularism has been transformed into an autonomous power that does not tolerate dissent. It allows well-organized minority groups to successfully impose their will on the majority under the pretext of observing human rights...I believe it important that Christians of Europe should stand shoulder to shoulder to defend those values upon which the life of the continent has been built for centuries, and that they should view the afflictions and dismay of Christians throughout the world as their own")

Iraq

Patriarch Louis Raphael I Sako (UPDATE: said at a conference in Rome, Italy "The referendum of Kurdistan, toward independence from Baghdad, is creating an escalation of tension between the two governments and we can almost hear the beats of war drums...Today, our people are living with fear of being engaged in another war, which means more chaos, more bloodshed, destruction and refugees. They are concerned about stability, security and worried about going back to live with daily crimes of robberies, gang rapes, torture and murder of Christians that has become so common...Everyone is waiting. What will happen tomorrow? Will there be a new war or not? Will there be peace? They don't know. Everyone is waiting, waiting with fear, without certainty")

Nigeria: Abuja

Fr Evaristus Bassey (UPDATE: spoke in response to the introduction of legislation by Deputy House leader Umar Jibrin that would more tightly regulate and license non-government organizations [NGOs]: "Caritas Nigeria and JDPC observe that most Catholic Dioceses and Archdioceses and Christian Churches that are registered in Nigeria under the CAC are registered as Incorporated Trustees and therefore fall under the NGO categorization...Knowing fully well that his religion demands him to use his position to promote and protect religion, is this Honorable Umar's subtle way of promoting and protecting his religion by setting up a framework in which others might be persecuted?...Jubril's disruptive effort is highly suspicious, especially against the backdrop of such security threats as the [Fulani] herdsmen attacks which are being seen as part of a sinister agenda of domination")

Cardinal John Olorunfemi Onaiyekan (UPDATE: criticized the government for labeling Biafrain separatists [which he does not support] as terrorists but not Fulani herdsmen "My understanding of a terrorist is a deadly armed activist. I don't think, merely speaking or talking or threatening [Biafrain independence] will add up to being a terrorist...The Fulani herdsmen who are armed, lethal, murderous, vicious and have been killing people in our communities, they are the ones that we are waiting for, to see what the government will do. If you recall, the bishops' conference called on the government to treat them as terrorists")
