India: Raikashipur village, Pratapgadh district, Uttar Pradesh state

Over 400 Christians at a worship service were attacked by armed Hindu fanatics, 20 were seriously injured, 10 vehicles were destroyed along with all church instruments and electrical equipment

Pastor Ram Kumar Gautam (aged 43, husband, father, later said "I didn't sleep or eat properly for nearly a week now...The attack on our prayer meeting last Monday has had devastating consequences. Many have serious injuries with their limbs being broken. Also, a false case was booked against six of us under stringent IPC sections", fled the scene, pursued, escaped)

Pastor Devesh Kumar (described the attack)

Akash (hit in the head with a rod, needed 7 sutures)

Jealal Gautam (beaten, arm broken, 18 year old son hospitalized in critical condition)

Rev Sanjay Robinson (said “There is no Freedom of Religion Act, popularly known as an anti-conversion law, in place in Uttar Pradesh, yet pastors and Christian workers are being frequently harassed by Hindu hardline groups with accusations of forced conversion. The gruesome incident on Christian worshipers in Raikashipur village reflects the pattern and plot of the Hindu hardline groups”)

Thailand: Phuket

Twelve Pakistani asylum seekers - 8 Christians and 4 Ahmadiyya Muslims - were detained while on their way to work

Shahzad Masih (aged 32, husband of Najma Shahzad, father of two, detained)

Najma Shahzad (aged 28, wife of Shahzad Masih, mother of two, said "My husband went to work far away from my home so he could support my two young children and I. He works endless hours for little pay and our life has become a real mess but we accepted our situation because it was better than the dangers that faced us back in our homeland. Now I am broken and I realize this world has little hope left for my family and I, except our faith that God has something planned for us")

Sattar Masih (aged 43, husband of Margaret Sattar, father of three, detained)

Margaret Sattar (aged 40, wife of Sattar Masih, mother of three, said "Our lives have been totally destroyed both in Pakistan and Thailand. We have been treated like insects - as something in the way that has to be removed. I don't know when I will ever see my husband again and now the responsibility to bring up my three children lies with me alone. This is heart-breaking and I have not stopped crying since I heard the news of my husband's arrest. This world is unfair and Pakistani Christians are the most despised of all people yet we have harmed no-one")

Adnan Masih (aged 32, husband of Sumaira Adnan, father of two, detained)

Sumaira Adnan (aged 29, wife of Adnan Masih, mother of two, teacher at an underground school for the children of asylum seekers)

United States

Austin Ruse (columnist, subjected to an FBI investigation after his tweet comparing pressure on business owners to place LGBT rainbows in their locales' windows to mafia shakedowns was reported by the Human Rights Campaign as a civil rights violation, the FBI closed the investigation as trivial, wrote that the complaint was akin to "swatting" and added "It works like this: A local restaurant is owned by a faithful Catholic who objects to the gay agenda. He does not want to put up the gay rainbow. He finds it offensive. So, he doesn't put it up. Gays notice he doesn't have the gay rainbow affixed to his window. 'Why don't you have the rainbow on your window?' they ask. 'Are you homophobic? Do you really want the local community to know about you?' You can see it spooling out from there. He is targeted by the local bully boys who proceed to make his life miserable, perhaps harming and even shuttering his business")

Philippines: General Santos

Church employees were arrested for allegedly harboring fugitives

Aldeem Yanez (arrested)

Roger Plana (arrested)

Rosemarie Cantano (arrested)

Bishop Felixberto Calang (present during the police raid on the spirituality center, said "Police claimed the people they were looking for were inside the building. They accused our staff and volunteers of aiding the people [the fugitives] named in the warrant. Those names are not known to the participants of the program. We are still helping them to secure all necessary documents and requirements and the money so that they can post bail")

Bishop Redeemer Yanez (said the arrest warrant was likely invalid: "There was no signature of the issuing judge or court. The names of the accused are unknown to all the individuals who were arrested. This is clear harassment of the church and the people who are trying to amplify the voice of the poor ")

Ritchie Masegman (decried increasing attacks on church institutions)

Thailand

Wilson Chowdhry (British citizen; UPDATE: received a communication from a church leader who is anonymous for security reasons "...You are probably aware of the police 'scare' that we have a few weeks ago. It seems that several international churches were targeted one Sunday. As a consequence, we have been careful to remove all asylum seeker photos from our website and Facebook etc., and seek to keep a low profile...Thai authorities seem adamant they will remove every last Pakistani Christian asylum seekers from their midst and are becoming more aggressive as the years pass on. This targeting of churches and the raid a few days ago that took place on a public transport bus are clear indicators of their no-tolerance position...Despite clear evidence of persecution in Pakistan the western world and Thailand continue to ignore the plight of Christians who escape the country. This has left many Pakistani Christian asylum seekers stranded or re-persecuted across the globe...This latest targeting of churches who are offering help to a needy and desperate group is a new low for Thai authorities who frightening care agencies and charities who are saving lives, comforting and providing much needed resources to already broken people...If international churches in Thailand are forced to give up their support and help which does not cost anything to the public purse, I fear the suffering of already beleaguered Pak-Christians is set to reach its lowest ebb")

United Kingdom: Ferryhill, England

Pastor Richard Smith (forced to resign as mayor after outrage over his posting of Biblical statements on his Facebook page, issued a statement: "Over recent weeks I have been subjected to unprecedented levels of adverse publicity. Whilst the instigators are very much in the minority, as evidenced by the widespread messages of support I have received, I realize that my ability to serve the people of Ferryhill in the manner I would have wished will always be subject to disruption and intimidation. To be denied the opportunity to hold personal views was never my expectation when I undertook the role of mayor, and it is a matter of sincere regret to me that those personal views have been so tragically and outrageously twisted and reported on in order to discredit both myself and my faith")

India: Ranchi, Jharkhand state

Christian leaders responded following the arrest of a nun and orphanage staffer on human trafficking charges

Sr Concilia MC (arrested)

Sr Marie Deanne MC (arrested)

Auxiliary Bishop Telesphore Billung (UPDATE: said "The government is targeting our institutions to defame us...We have reports from different parts of the state about government searches. Through these search operations, the government is trying to prove that Christians and their institutions are involved in illegal activities")

Fr Peter Martin (attorney, said the Church will go to court to "end such illegal practice and harassment")

Abraham Mathai (said "It is not surprising that those malicious elements have resurfaced yet again to get the nuns arrested on dubious charges...Charging the nuns with child trafficking is wildly absurd, unreasonable and nonsensical [it is] engineered by malicious motives to bring the admirable work of Missionaries of Charity to shame and disrepute both at home and abroad")

Pastor De Vera Richard (husband of Rita Gongga, Philippine national, restaurant operator, deported for religious conversions, banned from the country for a year)

Pastor Rita Gongga (wife of De Vera Richard, Indonesian national, restaurant operator, deported for religious conversions, banned from the country for a year)

Pastor Tanka Subedi (UPDATE: spoke on the deportation of Pastors De Vera Richard and Rita Gongga “This decision of deportation of the couple is too much, especially when it comes from the government in a democratic country like Nepal. The government allows them to do business in our country, and because they are Christians, they will certainly attend a church and participate in the community. But objections are raised by the government when they practice their faith. We have many Indian pujaris [Hindu temple priests] and a lot of Thai monks in Nepal, the government seems to have no problems with them, but only with Christians”)

India: Chandanagar area, Hyderabad, Telangana state

Pastor Tekulavari Jairaju (worship service disrupted by two BJP party officials, said “They said that they are posted by the BJP to inspect the churches in this area, and asked me if we had permission to conduct church services...One asked if I had the permission from the neighbors to conduct church services. He advised me to take down their names and contact details, and told that he would return to collect the information”)

India: Bommalamaram village, Yadadri Bhuvanagiri district, Telangana state

Pastor Jimmigari Devadanam (church construction halted by RSS paramilitaries, said “They issued death threats; we could not conduct a worship service also that Sunday...We purchased the land to construct the church and for the past 20 years we worshipped under a shed. With the help of some kind-hearted donors, we could collect enough funds to begin the construction work. I took permission from the village president and raised the pillars...Believers from surrounding tribal hamlets also attend the Sunday service and the shed was not enough. I secured permission for construction as well as to run the church from the officials, but it could not stop the Hindu extremists from attacking me...Even the police officers could not assure us of any help. One officer raised his voice and reprimanded me that the youths have the right to question about church services. Instead of assuring us that our rights will be protected, he strengthened them [the RSS]”)

India: Paguthampalayam village, Erode district, Tamil Nadu state

Prathiba Stephen (wife of Pastor Stephen Paul, attacked by 4 Hindu radicals while leading a prayer service in her home in her husband's absence with at least 4 elderly Christians, all were beaten, dragged into her bedroom, at least partially stripped of her clothing and molested, beaten again later than night by the original perpetrators joined with 20 more radicals after her husband returned and again after she was dragged from an ambulance, fled on a motorbike to a nearby village for hospital treatment, followed to the hospital by the radicals who demanded that the hospital not treat the Christians but rather them for their ‘injuries’, refused hospital treatment, fled 75 kilometers to another hospital for treatment, the Hindu radicals later filed a criminal complaint against the Christians to counter the Christians' complaint)

Bishop Marcus Stock (reported to have criticized a report on religious education [RE] by a former Education Secretary and a professor “Not only are their recommendations largely incompatible within our sector, they were compiled with the knowledge that the Catholic community would find them unacceptable, this was explicitly stated in their report...Firstly, [it is wrong] that the State can impose a national RE curriculum, which would dictate what the Church is required to teach in Catholic schools. Secondly, the curriculum they suggest contains no theological content, which is at the core of Catholic RE...Catholic schools are the most successful providers of Religious Education in the country. This is because we take it seriously as a rigorous, theological academic subject. However, rather than look at the sector that does it the best they have opted for a reductionist approach which is exclusively sociological and has no consensus amongst RE professionals”)
