Fr Barwende Medard Sane SJ (Catholic University Center director, reported that "The clashes in the capital are serious, but represent an exception. Life is relatively normal in Bangui...Since the dissolution of the Seleka movement and the anti-Balaka movement at least 14 factions have emerged that continuously clash with each other for the control of the territory and mineral and natural resources [gold, uranium, timber]. This creates a climate of general insecurity that has serious consequences on the civilian population")

An investigation has been opened, but nothing has changed. This is not the first time UN soldiers behave in this way. In 2015, a group of Congolese peacekeepers were expelled for offering lentil boxes in exchange for sex", added that anti-balaka dismember their victims ["The hearts or internal organs of the victims are torn because they say that in this way they steal their souls"] and spoke of himself "The Catholic Church is the last to turn off the light. We cannot leave. I do not sleep well, I am stressed. Every time I prayed I heard the explosion of bombs and gusts of machine guns. I had moments of psychological fragility and that is why I had to take a break")

Event UPDATE: Two Christians were attacked on a bus while travelling to a prayer meeting, hospitalized

Rev Mariosh Joseph (said "It was evident from the mob that it was a pre-planned attack. There was a media person present to record and publish the entire episode in the media, along with the Hindu extremist mob...They told the Christians that they were visiting to lure the innocent and poor villagers with money and benefits and fool them into becoming Christians...Even being in a public place, no one came to their rescue, and passersby were mere spectators as the mob beat both the Christians mercilessly, while the other Christian teammates cried for help...Some of the women got so frightened that they fled the site and returned home from the bus station itself without attending the camp...The right-wing groups are specially instructed to hit in a way that they do not bleed anyone externally, but cause gruesome injuries internally...The police in most of the cases are biased and try to see how they can frame the victims, rather than doing the other way around...Though such an incident of violence against the Christian believers happened, the meeting continued, and the people were blessed and inspired by the Word of God”)

Indonesia

Archbishop Aloysius Sudarso SCJ (condemned the vandalism of a newly consecrated chapel "Last March 4 I had blessed the new chapel situated in a village in an isolated area, a three-hour journey from the parish. It was a celebration in an atmosphere of supreme cordiality, with the heartfelt participation of village leaders, civil authorities, Muslim religious leaders. The church was built following all the regulations and the necessary legal process. This act of gratuitous violence surprises us, but we believe it is the work of few radical members who want to fuel, here and throughout Indonesia, religious hatred, intolerance and violence...The police are investigating. Acts of desecration like this are perceived as a shame for the whole society...we are saddened by this act but the solidarity received by many Muslims consoles us")

Iran

Mansour Borji (human rights spokesman, reported on the government seizure of a church retreat center "...[it is] not only a takeover of a property by corrupt judiciary and Intelligence officials, but yet another move in an ongoing and systematic campaign by the Iranian state to uproot Protestant Christianity...Labelling a long-standing and vibrant Church with national security charges for its rightful religious activities and accusing them of collusion with the CIA is indeed worrying. It should be a concern for anyone who is interested in safeguarding freedom of religion and belief in this country”, added that churches have been forced to conduct only one service on Sundays “This was an attempt to restrict participation in services, especially for the converts to Christianity, as Sunday is a weekday and Friday is a day off for many people in the country. Training camps and programs held during the week were shut down too”)

Nigeria

Sunny Isa (youth, said “They called us ‘infidels’. “They also said we are ‘poor’ and that’s why they date our girls and convert them to Islam and marry them. These insults and humiliation from the Muslim boys has been going on for long, so we decided to constitute a committee to stop our girls from dating Muslims, since Muslim girls are even prohibited from dating Christians”)

Rev Danlami Gajere (commented on violence between Christians and Muslims over Muslims dating Christian girls “They date Christian girls and sleep with them and come to mock the Christians. They will tell us that they sleep with our wives and our daughters and call us ‘infidels’. On the other hand it is an abomination for Muslim girls to date Christian girls. ‘Who are you to date a Muslim girl!’ They don’t even have regard for non-Muslims. That’s the reason why Christian youths constituted a committee to stop Christian girls from dating Muslims – to avoid the insults and humiliation”)

Rev Makama Mazadu (said “I was called by the Sarkin Kajuru [traditional ruler] for a meeting. When I went to the meeting, I saw a lady in hijab. The Sarki told me that as CAN chairman, he wants to tell me that the lady named Alheri wants to convert to Islam ... that she is [now] a Muslim and they wanted to let me know. I told him that this is unacceptable because I cannot handle this alone. I requested to take the girl along with me, but he said I can’t go with the girl as she was already a Muslim. He said the Muslims had agreed that whoever wants to convert to Islam should, within eight to ten hours be converted”)

Sunday “Sunny” Oibe (Public Relations Officer for the Christian Association of Nigeria, UPDATE: said “Abducted girls are always taken to the palaces of some traditional rulers, where the conversion and marriage takes place and when the matter is reported to the police, nothing is done to bring the culprits to justice. Why do Muslims find it convenient to marry Christian girls but [they] will not allow their own daughters to marry Christians? We must discourage [this]. Nigeria has a constitution and laws, but the only thing is that our security agencies are not living up to expectations. That is why this issue of abduction and forceful conversion has continued. The police should be able to arrest and prosecute all those doing this”)

United Kingdom

Bishop Gavin Ashenden (UPDATE: wrote an essay on the demands of Christian baptism "...And here is the dilemma for the Church of England. A state Church wedded to a state that hates Christian virtue and Christian ethics: a state that has begun to criminalize Christian witness as hate speech, where police arrest street preachers and have them thrown in prison at the push of a SJW's phone button: a state that has begun preparations to remove children from their Christian homes if social workers detect what they improperly label 'homophobia' in the parents: a state where Christian teachers are expelled and sacked if they do not endorse the secular brainwashing on the fluidity of gender...Faced with this kind of state, it does not require a subtle reading of Scripture to observe that the gap between the world and Church has grown wide and fierce in our generation. And as always when this happens Christians have to choose between the vigorous and sometimes brutal demands of allegiance the state imposes to cow and tame them, or the faithful witness to Jesus which comes with an increasing and painful cost...")

Lisa Boucher (bridal shop co-owner, announced the closure of the shop due the imminent passage of an ordinance that would prohibit her religious refusal to cater to same sex weddings, "So what they [the LGBT community] did was got enough people to run for town council and they had a lot of the kids from [Bloomsburg University] vote those members in so a law could be passed. We actually have a document from the Democratic Committee here pretty much saying that there is going to be a fight with W.W. Bridal... We are closing and this is our livelihood. At this point, we don't have any plans of what to do in the future. We are kind of just resting on God's Word and hoping that He is going to pull us through it and open some sort of doors.
