Rafiq Masih (aged 70, donated the land for the church)

Rafaqat Masih (union councilor for minorities, retired army, shopkeeper, has been working to resolve the dispute, said “Rafiq is childless, so he bequeathed this property for the construction of a church building. The construction began in 2012 and we had been holding worship services since then. But in December 2016 the local Muslims objected over it and filed an application against us in the local police station. At that time, a compromise was reached and we again started holding services. But, again, in December 2017, they submitted an application in the police station, after which we were called in and were told to sign an agreement [to end services]...We are being forced to demolish the existing church structure and, in lieu of this, they would let us build a church on a piece of government land outside the village which is already dedicated for a school. They haven't even given any documentary proof that this piece of land would be transferred to Christians. Then another issue is that we worked for several years to construct this church building. Now who is going to pay for building from scratch?"

Pastor Liaquat M Qaiser (UPDATE: said "Christians are peace-loving people. We don't desire any conflict. If the local Muslims do not want Christians worshipping among them, then they should provide them an alternative place. They are poor people and do not have resources to buy another place and build a church once again")

Central African Republic

Fr Francis Davy Barka-Nado SMA (said "It seems as if there was a planned depopulation project in some parts of the country. Villages, infrastructures, human lives are destroyed; entire families eradicated due to ethnicity, race and religion. It can be said that at present there is an atypical form of genocide in the CAR...The news on incidents and massacres committed by rebel groups against the civilian population do not reflect reality on the ground. What is said, transmitted and disseminated by international means, is bias and exploited...When there is a tragedy in a city or village, the survivors know who did what and know the number of victims. But they are also victims and do not have access to international media to express themselves. Often the perpetrators are presented as victims...The suffering of the Central African population far exceeds what is reported outside the Country or what is seen on television in the West. Death has become an everyday friend. The morgues of the Bangui General Hospital and the community hospital are no longer sufficient to receive corpses. The coffin business, which culturally represents a taboo, is becoming very profitable right now...The arrival of the Russian army in the country was greeted by the population as a relief against the atrocities, despite the presence of United Nations forces")

Saraswoti Dhakal (aged 57, wife of Pastor Govinda Prasad Dhakal, said they were “facing injustice for doing good”) Prabhushanta Dhakal (son of Pastor Govinda Prasad Dhakal, said: “For about six years my father has been sheltering children in our house, helping to educate them and providing for their needs”, described how extortion attempts began after the girl was returned to her family after showing behavioral issues: "First they demanded 20,000 [rupees] for enrolling her in a school. Then they made this fabricated story of rape and demanded 70 lakh rupees [US$62,050] from my father. They thought that my father is a very rich man, and he can give whatever they demand. ‘You people should come with a big bag of 70 lakh rupees, then we will free your father’" also described how he found out later that the girl's mother received cash settlements after accusing two others of raping the daughter: "At the age of 9, she was raped by a boy who was rich and influential. The case was dismissed after an out-of-court settlement was done between the two families. Subsequently they gave money to the mother and the case was dismissed...Neither did her mother reveal it to us until they used the same tactics on my father, accusing him of raping her")

Pastor Tanka Subedi (UPDATE: said “We are not happy to see the verdict, because everything was pre-decided...We are forced to believe that the judge passed an unfair judgment because Govinda is a Christian, otherwise there was no other reason for such a verdict, especially when the accusers themselves had confessed before the court that they were hoping to make a huge amount of money by putting a false charge against Govinda. Secondly, we are led to believe that he was not given a clean chit due to our stand of ‘no bribing.’”)

Pastor B P Khanal (UPDATE: said “Despite the mother’s recorded confession, the court did not take cognizance of her statement, nor did the court take action against her for her initial fabricated statements that she had given in the presence of the judges. How could the honorable judge allow this and still go ahead and pronounce 10 years of imprisonment on an innocent person?”)

Pastor Arul Ruben (aged 37, church destroyed by arson, said "I received the call around 8 p.m., immediately asked the local pastor in Paramankeni to continue the service and rushed to Seekanankuppam. In 20 minutes I was able to reach it, but by that time, nothing was left – the fire had spread all over...[Last year] they humiliated the Christians for their non-participation [in a Hindu festival] and issued threats that the church would be destroyed if any Christian refused to contribute to the Hindu temple for the annual celebration of their deity. Even this year, they visited the Christian families and asked them to donate for the celebration, but nobody contributed. When the festival is over, just when we were glad for the peace and harmony around us, we get to see the church turn to ashes”)

Pastor Benjamin (said the locals had demanded the church property be used for a cemetery right-of-way and commercial development “Behind the church, the Hindu residents from nearby villages demanded that the church be closed down so a short-cut way can be paved for Hindus taking their deceased for cremation. They even carried the dead via the church premises to the cemetery. They stopped after the area president intervened and warned them that it is not right, and that they must avoid entering the church premises and take the long route instead...The area is in demand because of the ECR route, and random businessmen and real estate dealers constantly ask us to vacate. They told us the land can be of best advantage for commercial use”)

Zidon Love (texted “These five Christians will die if nothing is urgently done to assist them”)

Rev Samson Ayokunle (Christian Association of Nigeria president; UPDATE: later wrote a condemnation of the death sentence of the five Christians in the face of a lack of prosecutions of Muslim killers: “CAN is not supporting jungle justice or any criminality. But hundreds of our members [Christians] in southern Kaduna, Benue, Taraba and Plateau states in the north-central geo-political zones, and a state like Enugu in the south, have been killed. Citizens stood helpless at the massacre of their peaceful fellow Nigerians, the international community watched in anguish how government security agencies could not bring perpetrators of these heinous killings to book...We are shocked at the speed of light deployed by security and judicial officers in sentencing the alleged killers of the herdsman in Adamawa state...Why did the court discharge the alleged killers of Madam Bridget Agbahime on the orders of the Kano state government? Why have security officials not arrested those behind the killings of Christians in southern Kaduna? Why did Nigeria Police set free those arrested for the murder of Mrs Eunice Elisha Olawale in Kubwa, Abuja? In view of this, CAN is calling on President Buhari to intervene in the death sentence passed on these Christian youths in Adamawa”)

Bishop Emmah Isong (later wrote a condemnation of the death sentence of the five Christians: “It looks as if it is vengeance for a Yola court to condemn five Christians to death for allegedly killing herdsman when herdsmen are rampaging everywhere killing and maiming innocent Christians and going free...It is high time the federal government had to intervene and to ensure that those Christians are not killed to forestall further religious conflict within that axis. Instead of killing people for herdsmen, the Nigerian federal government should rather find a way to curtail their activities and provide adequate security to all Nigerians”)

United Kingdom

Lord David Alton (human rights advocate, UPDATE: wrote "The Northern Ireland minister Lord Duncan of Springbank recently remarked that the province's insistence that the only lawful justification for abortion should be a threat to the mother's life was 'Victorian'. This ill-considered and patronizing remark was not random. It was part of a concerted attempt to force abortion legislation on Northern Ireland...Significantly, the most recent vote on abortion within any UK legislature was 18 months ago in the Northern Ireland Assembly. It voted against a change to the law. But British political parties, once champions of devolution [i.e. local autonomy], have turned full circle when it comes to abortion...This is only the latest example of what the philosopher John Gray calls 'alt-liberalism', a mutant version of liberal ideology: all-knowing, self-regarding and autocratic. It's the phenomenon that led to Tim Farron packing his bags as Liberal Democrat leader, saying it had become impossible to reconcile his Christian faith with this new ideology. One Labour MP told me that he daren't say what he believes for fear of retaliation. Free speech is going the same way as devolution and conscience. The judiciary, meanwhile, is becoming increasingly politicized...one hundred thousand people are alive in Northern Ireland who would be dead had the 1967 Abortion Act applied there")

Fr Aurelio Gazzera OCD (UPDATE: said "The security problems in our area are concentrated in the border area with Cameroon mainly due to the arrival of Peuls nomadic peoples, who are protected by Seleka rebels...several strong African men, heads of State and government, generals, entrepreneurs, invest part of their fortunes in thousands of cattle who rely on the Peuls. Therefore, behind these massive movements of herds carried out by the Peuls, there are strong economic interests...The hottest areas of the country remain those of Bambari and Bria where several gangs are competing for the control of diamond mines or simply of road check points in order to extort money. They too have no interest in re-establishing the state and order")

Bishop Gavin Ashenden (UPDATE: wrote "...I encountered the dictatorship of Marxism as I carried Bibles and theology books behind the Iron Curtain to help sustain the severely persecuted Christians. The control and repression of the Marxist state was murderous, brutal and total. [If our analysis is correct, the Christians in Russia may soon need to return the favor and smuggled soon-to-be-banned Christian books and Bibles {see hate crime} to us in the UK.]...The family is not no longer about generation, but about sexual and romantic self-expression. It is co-opted into a sexualizing of society into a perversion and distortion of God's intentions as we encounter them in revelation. It was not enough for this new movement has set out to capture not only the secular society in the West primarily, it has set out also to capture the Church...Secularized Christians have no immunity against the zeitgeist, the spirit of the age. By swallowing the values and language of cultural Marxism Christians have deprived themselves of the protection they needed in the spirit and cosmic struggle against evil...Can we win? In the West? Almost certainly not. This project has captured education, the law, medicine, and even the armed forces. The situation is too far gone. We may argue and pray as long as we can, but even that may not be open to us for very long. [Leading Presbyterian theologian] Robert Gagnon was thrown off, suspended from Facebook a few weeks ago. Already as Christians committed to scriptural anthropologies, we fail the terms and conditions of Facebook, twitter and YouTube...The catacombs was where we begun. And like them, we face a dangerously repressive culture determined to persecute the church. What we face, unpalatable as it is, is not a wave of revival to capture our culture, but a season of persecution. It is part of what we signed up to when we became Christians, and it is not without honor to share in the sufferings of Christ as we bear faithful witness to who He is, what He has done for our souls, and what He will do at the end of time, as we are ushered into His presence...", presented an expanded version the following day at the Global Anglican Future Conference [GAFCON] in Jerusalem)

Church leaders responded after President Duterte called God a "SOB" and "stupid"

Bishop Arturo Bastes (UPDATE: said the president was "a psychological freak, a psychopath, an abnormal mind...[he has become] intolerable to normal, well-minded people [who have been praying] that God will deliver us from this evil...I share with the feelings and thoughts with these concerned fellow Filipinos" and called on people to "fervently pray to the Lord that such blasphemous utterances and dictatorial tendencies of this mad man will cease")

Bishop Ruperto Santos (said the president crossed a "red line...[he should] not tempt God as He said vengeance is mine")

Senator Panfilo Lacson (presidential supporter, said "May my God forgive him and make him atone for all his sins...Between him and my God to whom I pray every single day and with whom I've found solace and comfort in all my difficult times, I don't even have to think of my choice")

China

Aaron Ma (Open Doors International researcher, said "There is now a heightened sense that a breach of regulations will be met by some form of warning, increased surveillance, or punishment. Certainly, most churches feel it is time to take extra precautions, to downsize or maybe even relocate some of their ministries...Christians who used their own church building for meetings were targeted [in 2018], and their buildings closed...In the wake of recent speeches by top leaders, local authorities do not want to appear weak when implementing new regulations. Conversely, they do not want to upset the tentative, but effective, relationship they have with local churches...There is also the possibility that a crackdown will spark demonstrations, or lead to information being leaked to overseas media, so authorities must be extremely prudent in their engagement with the Church. The level of enforcement also varies from region to region, depending on this tentative relationship, and how the Church responds each time pressure is applied...Some surmise that so-called 'foreign' religions, particularly Islam and Christianity, will be forced to cast off their attachment to external forces and morph into Chinese-style religions that fit both culturally and politically. Affiliation with overseas religious groups and receipt of overseas funding are the primary concerns voiced by authorities...Rather than encourage unity based on a celebration of diversity, they have preferred an intentional and sustained process of Sinicization to create uniformity in order to achieve President Xi Jinping's dream of 'rejuvenation of the Chinese nation'. Social stability must be preserved at all cost...The CCP [Chinese Communist Party] believes the Church is a de-stabilizing force, but not because it is bad, in fact, local communities and authorities tend to believe Christians are good people. Some suggest that because Christians' allegiance is first and foremost to God and not the Communist Party, there is a conflict of interests that the party believes can potentially hinder the process of unification. Others are more concerned by what they perceive as potential 'chaos' arising from the huge number of Christians")
