Pakistan: Peshawar

Fr Emmanuel Yousuf Mani (director of the National Commission of Justice and Peace; UPDATE: condemned the government order to seize Edwardes College, said it would weaken the ability of Christians to contribute to the nation's progress)

Bishop Joseph Arshad (UPDATE: said "Christian Churches are doing a great job for the development of the Country, we want to continue working to improve the community, especially in the education sector. We condemn the decision of the government of the province of Khyber PakhthunKhwa [KPK] and we appeal to revoke the order of nationalization of Edwardes College...these actions can influence the quality and level of education of the institution. Educational work must not stop because of political intervention")

Cecil Shane Chaudhry (UPDATE: said the government order was "the sabotage of the rights of religious minorities")

China: Macao

Rev Cyril Jerome Law Jr (diocesan chancellor, issued a statement criticizing the government for projecting a Communist Party slide show onto an historical church ruin: "Although the façade is no longer church property, it remains a symbol of the Catholic Faith in Macau...As the façade of St Paul's represents the profound and long-standing Catholic heritage in Macau, the Diocese wishes to propose that, should there be other 'mapping shows' to be held in the future, their contents would do well to be related to the religious context of the said monument")

United Kingdom: London

Dr David Mackereth (aged 56, reported on July 8, 2018 to have been fired from the National Health Service for claiming that gender has a biological basis; reported on July 12, 2019 to have attended a court hearing, told that his Christian beliefs were not legitimate because other Christians did not hold them; UPDATE: the Employment Tribunal issued a ruling that upheld his dismissal and stated that his Christian beliefs regarding gender are not 'worthy of respect in a democratic society', said "I am not alone in being deeply concerned by this outcome. Staff in the NHS, even those who do not share my Christian convictions, are also disturbed as they see their own freedom of thought and speech being undermined by the judges' ruling. No doctor, or researcher, or philosopher, can demonstrate or prove that a person can change sex. Without intellectual and moral integrity, medicine cannot function and my 30 years as a doctor are now considered irrelevant compared to the risk that someone else might be offended. I believe that I have to appeal in order to fight for the freedom of Christians – and any other NHS member of staff – to speak the truth. If they cannot, then freedom of speech has died in this country, with serious ramifications for the practice of medicine in the UK")

Andrea Minichiello Williams (Chief Executive of Christian Concerns; UPDATE: said "This is an astonishing judgment and one that if upheld will have seismic consequences not just for the NHS and for Christians, but anyone in the work place who is prepared to believe and say that we are created male and female. It is deeply disturbing that this is the first time in the history of English law that a judge has ruled that free citizens must engage in compelled speech. Here Judge Perry has ruled that Christianity is not protected by the Equality Act or the ECHR [European Convention on Human Rights], unless it is a version of Christianity which recognizes transgenderism and rejects a belief in Genesis 1:27. The teaching of Genesis 1:27 is repeated throughout the Bible, including by Jesus Christ himself. It is fundamental to establishing the dignity of every human person but is, in a bizarre ironic twist, being branded as incompatible with that dignity. No protection is given to beliefs 'incompatible with human dignity' and 'not worthy of respect in a democratic society'. In the past this definition has only applied to the most extreme beliefs, such as those of Holocaust deniers, neo-Nazis, and similar. It is quite shocking for the judge to put the belief in the Bible in the same category now. This is one of the most concerning rulings we have ever seen at the Christian Legal Centre and we are determined to continue to fight for justice in this case")

Nigeria: Kakau Daji village, Chikun county

Fulani Muslim gunmen attacked a parochial high school, abducted six students and two staff members, demanded an initial ransom of US$82,327 per student

Joel Adamu (vice principal of academics, abducted)

Julde Juli (father of a 15 year old daughter, daughter abducted, said “I was shocked on receiving the news of the kidnapping of my daughter and other students. I just pray that nothing happens to them, and that they come out alive. I trust that our God is sovereign over all things. We are trusting that through divine intervention our children would be rescued”)

Shunom Giwa (vice principal, described the attack: “They asked me to lie down, and I did as instructed. They then attempted to enter my bedroom and, fully aware that my wife and children were inside, I stood up to distract them, but they asked me to lie down again, which I did...When I discovered that their attention was on my colleague [Joel Adamu], I just ran into the bush, and on realizing I was escaping, they shot at me, but fortunately they didn’t get me. They searched for me without success, and when they couldn’t get me, they started looking for where the students were”, attempted to feign a call to police by shouting “Police, JTF [Joint Task Force] security come, there are kidnappers here! On hearing me shouting, they began to shoot at to my direction again. I then ran and jumped over the fence and ran out of the school”)

Samuel Amamchukwu (school director, announced the suspension of classes: “We can’t continue with academic activities while the six students and two staff are in captivity”)

India: Bagdogra, West Bengal state

Rev Bryan Nerren (U.S. citizen, husband of Rhonda Nerren, detained after not possessing forms needed for the importation of money - customs officials had admitted him without giving him the forms, passport confiscated, doctor spat on the jail floor when he admitted he was a Christian)

Sajan K George (Global Council of Indian Christians; UPDATE: commented on the arrest of Rev Bryan Nerren: “whilst it is unclear why he was arrested, foreigners who take part in Church initiatives are routinely detained...[he] filled the forms he was requested to fill. He followed all protocols he was given. He was cleared and freed to go [in New Delhi], but was arrested as he stepped off the plane in Bagdogra...It is a common sight to see foreign tourists participate enthusiastically in the Kumbh Mela and other [Hindu] religious festivals in India. They are rightly treated as honored guests. Why this discrimination against Christians?”)

Syria: Aleppo

Bishop George Abu Khazen OFM (UPDATE: spoke on the Turkish invasion: "We are very worried about what is happening as a result of the Turkish invasion in the northeast. We already have tens of thousands of refugees, with many stories of people horribly killed on the ground, according to ISIL modus operandi: executed their hands tied, not only Kurds, but also Armenian Christians, Assyrians, Chaldeans who have already known persecution under the Ottoman Empire, which is now affecting their grandchildren and great-grandchildren. [In Qamishli] the first victims of the bombing were two Christians...Jihadis operate and fight under the auspices of the Turkish army. They [the Turks] claim they want to repatriate Syrian refugees to places where other peoples and communities already live. In fact, the goal is ethnic cleansing, to settle other refugees. They are doing the same in Afrin, causing a human tragedy. Meanwhile, political leaders are doing nothing. These wars do not solve problems; on the contrary, they lay the foundations for other, bigger ones...What will happen to those who helped Daesh [ISIL, the Islamic State]? With Turkey's offensive, they'll end up with those Ankara trained and helped, encouraging their entry [into the country], and whose revival will now be favored by the [Turkish] occupation")

United Kingdom: Brent, North London

Maureen Griffith (aged 74, Barbadian immigrant, retired nurse, suspended as a school governor on May 21, 2019, sent a letter to the school appealing her suspension; UPDATE: has heard nothing regarding the suspension since it happened, said "...whether as a nurse where I am responsible for patient safety or as a governor where I am responsible for a child's education and shaping the school environment, it is my job to notice things that others do not. In meetings where someone may want to push something through, I scrutinize, and this leads to discussion, debate and finding consensus on the right way to move forward...When they told me I had been 'homophobic' for scrutinizing the introduction of LGBT Pride month, I had to go home and look up what it meant. I couldn't believe it. It never occurred to me that I could be 'homophobic' or scared of something. These things don't come into my head...But now with this LGBT agenda, not just in schools, but across society, there is no debate, no questioning and there is only a one-way democracy...I loved being part of education and planning what was happening at the school. I am, however, at peace over the whole situation. I am not annoyed; I am only saddened that this is happening in this country...My faith in Jesus is very important to me in good and bad times – it is my be all and end all. I can do nothing without His help, and he makes my burden lighter")

Andrea Minichiello Williams (Chief Executive of Christian Concerns; UPDATE: stated on the suspension of school governor Maureen Griffith "What has taken place at this school is a microcosm of what is happening across our society and sends a clear message to teachers, governors and students: if you oppose the LGBT agenda you will be silenced and punished. No one is exempt, not even a kind, caring and compassionate woman in her 70s who has dedicated her whole life to caring for others and increasing the life chances of children and improving her community. Such censor for merely questioning whether books with LGBT themes are appropriate for school libraries, and asking whether parents had been properly consulted, cannot go unchallenged. We call on the school to reinstate Mrs Griffith and issue a full apology")

India: Tamil Nadu state

Rev Vijaya Kumar (stated “We are going through a tough time – there is immense pressure from the police administration in Tiruppur District that Christians are not allowed to gather for prayers even within the four walls of their homes. The pastors of these small churches have been harassed to seek permission from district officials to conduct prayer services”)

P S Nehemiah Christie (UPDATE: stated “This level of opposition from government officials is undermining the secularistic values inscribed in the Indian constitution and could lead to deprivation of Christians’ right and freedom to practice their faith, which was upheld time and again in several judgments delivered by the Madras and Madurai benches of the high court...[Persecution's] impact is visibly seen now. Today Hindus do not want to let out their houses on rent for Christians and Christian prayers particularly. If after great efforts and search a Christian manages to find a place to reside, the Hindu extremist groups in that area would alert the police officials to search their homes and stop prayers. It has been a difficult year”)

Syria: Hassake

Fr Nidal Thomas (reported on the Turkish incursion: "At least 300 Christians have been forced to leave the towns of Ras al-Ain, Derbasiyah, Tall Tamr and one area of al-Malikiyah. We are afraid that if the fighting continues, there could be a still greater exodus which might even include the town of Qamishli, where there are 2,300 Christians families living at present...We don't know what is actually happening. Every hour we hear reports from the Kurds, the Turks, the Americans, and the Russians, of victims and people fleeing. But we don't know the real truth. The only thing we know for certain is that the bombings and, above all, the massacres committed by Turks against our community are forcing more and more Christians to flee...And meanwhile, the Western countries are fighting among themselves to divide up Syria, which has been brought to its knees also by the international sanctions. There were thousands of Christian families in our country. No one attempted to defend us", added that many freed Islamic State [ISIL] fighters have joined the Turkey-backed Syrian National Armies: "Unfortunately this [jihadist revival is] an eventuality we have to take into account")

United Kingdom: London

Christian Hacking (aged 29, arrested on August 8, 2019 while praying in a park across the street from an abortion clinic, ordered to 'stand up' by police from his wheelchair, said "I'm going to continue praying. I'm in this place because they're killing human beings inside this clinic, it is against the law to ban anyone praying anywhere in this land. The PSPO [court order] has been built upon false grounds, false harassment, fake news, I don't respect it. I don't think you have a constitutional right to stop someone from praying, so I'm going to continue praying here until you remove me, forcibly or whatever, because what's more important is that God's law is upheld in this nation and not the law of those who govern this nation and not this ludicrous law that says people can't pray";

UPDATE: charges dropped by Crown Prosecutors due to "not enough evidence to provide a realistic prospect of conviction" and because the required legal warning of arrest was not given by police)
